FAURECIA ANNOUNCES THE APPOINTMENT OF MATHIAS MIEDREICH AS EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT OF CLEAN MOBILITY BUSINESS GROUP

Faurecia, one of the world leading automotive technology companies, today announces the appointment of Mathias Miedreich as Faurecia Clean Mobility Executive Vice President. Previously Deputy Executive Vice President of this Business Group, Mathias Miedreich succeeds Christophe Schmitt who is appointed Group Operations Executive Vice President. Christophe Schmitt replaces Hagen Wiesner, who is appointed Cockpit Modules (including the SAS joint venture) Executive Vice President.

Faurecia's Executive Committee, headed by Patrick Koller, Chief Executive Officer, is now composed of 14 members with 5 different nationalities representing all the Business Groups and the major functions as well as China.

Patrick Koller, Chief Executive Officer of Faurecia, declared: "I am pleased to welcome Mathias Miedreich into our Executive Committee. He brings significant experience in different regions. His mission is to continue the transformation of our Clean Mobility activity towards zero emissions and powertrain electrification technologies. Christophe Schmitt will continue to enhance our industrial performance and operational resilience with a strong focus on digital transformation. He also manages the key functions of information systems and purchasing. Hagen Wiesner, with his newly created role, will drive our Cockpit Modules activity as it becomes increasingly important to our Cockpit of the Future strategy."

Born in 1975, Mathias Miedreich holds a degree in International Business Management from the Erlangen-Nuremberg Friedrich-Alexander University and started his career at KPMG Consulting in 1999. In 2003, Mathias joined SiemensVDO as Director for the Chassis Sensors business. From 2006 to 2008, he worked in Shanghai as Asia-Pacific Director for the Engine System business of Continental AG and then from 2008 to 2013 as Vice President Exhaust & Emission Sensors business for Continental. Mathias joined Faurecia in 2013 as Vice President, Strategy & New Technologies for the Clean Mobility business. Between 2014 and 2019 he was consecutively Clean Mobility Vice President for Asia and then for Europe. He was appointed Faurecia Clean Mobility Deputy Executive Vice President in April 2019.
